Amazing Slow Downer can run on Mac OS X and is available for Windows and Linux. Cohort modeling of the impact of national health care policy on emergency surgery in The Netherlands. The Dutch national strategy of implementing evidence-based guidelines for treatment of acute appendicitis during the last decade has led to a dramatic decrease in the rate of emergency appendectomy. Despite this, patients may still be exposed to a significant loss of life (compared with historic levels). The use of the life-table technique allows correct estimation of the change in the number of appendectomies. In order to assess the effects of the national policy on the incidence rate of emergency appendectomy, two cohort models were used. The first cohort model is based on time-incidence models and the second on a Markov life-table model. The cohort models gave slightly differing, but comparable, results. They indicate that the reduction of the rate of appendectomies could be caused by the Dutch national strategy, by decreasing both
